Grand Homes of Vallejo Tour

636 Georgia St.

One of the few "new" homes in Vallejo's Heritage District, built in 1987. The house and garage consist of three gabled volumes, stepping down the hill and interconnected with exterior and interior "bridges". Architectural expression contains familiar elements often found in the neighborhood: gabled, shingled roofs, horizontal wood siding, the custom cut, oversized "shingles" surrounding arched gable window and thick mulioned wood windows. This modern house is sympathetic and respectful of its traditional neighbors, fitting in like it was always there.

NOTE: The Home Tour requires a ticket (see inside front cover).
Open Studios is a free event.

Grand Homes of Vallejo Tour

809 Georgia St. ~ Megarry Mansion

Classically distinctive home (1901-02). One of the few Georgian styles in Vallejo. Central focus is a scrolled parapet gable with a quatrefoil window. The porch has an overly wide, shallow pediment, dentils, blocky modillions and tubular columns with no entasis or fluting. It has been said to be built for the Megarry sisters by their brother, Arthur Megarry, a grocer.

NOTE: The Home Tour requires a ticket (see inside front cover). Open Studios is a free event.

Grand Homes of Vallejo Tour

842 Georgia St.

Part of a five-block area bought by the old Vallejo Homestead Association from General Frisbie in 1867. A Victorian Italianate built in 1868. G.W. Wilson, a Vallejo banker, bought it in 1892, and added a 4-room portion in the rear. In 1953 the home was enlarged again with a Federal Style extending the side and front of the house with 24ft. columns and an addition to the side of the house enlarging the living room with bay windows and creating an enclosed courtyard.

NOTE: The Home Tour requires a ticket (see inside front cover). Open Studios is a free event.

Grand Homes of Vallejo Tour

919 Georgia St.

Perfect example of Dutch Colonial Revival style that swept through the West at the turn of the century. Built from California redwood, it was designed by Vallejo's most notable architect, William Jones (of Empress Theater) in 1898 for a hat haberdasher, Frank Copper. With an eclectic arrangement of Queen Ann influences such as the front bay windows, rounded Colonial entry porch and gambrel roof, this home is a sterling example of eclectic Victorian tastes of the new Century.

NOTE: The Home Tour requires a ticket (see inside front cover). Open Studios is a free event.

Grand Homes of Vallejo Tour

728 Capitol St. ~ The Julia Morgan House

Julia Morgan designed one of her most sophisticated homes in the First Bay Tradition within the city-designated historic zone called the Heritage District in Vallejo. The G.W. Wilson House was commissioned, it was designed in 1907 and completed in 1909 as a two and a half story residence. Morgan deftly blended elements of the Swiss Châlet style with neoclassical Beaux-Arts features. This is one of Morgan's finest residences in the First Bay Tradition mode.
